"Creating a Business Around Your Passions"

Mary will help you fulfill your dreams around your passions, whether as an entrepreneur, community leader or in your family. Utilizing the same principles that guided WWf(a)C and that she uses to assist businesses and other organizations and visioncasting and change efforts, Mary will help you voice your dreams and face the barriers that prevent you from being as successful as you can be. Here's what others say: "Mary's Leadership program transformed my understanding of managing..."What you are teaching us about "living systems" leadership is already beginning to pay off..."What an inspiration you are!"

Learn how to:

- understand and create your life and work as living systems
- listen to and act from depth, rather than surface
- create your business as a learning community
- cultivate writing in community as an organizational operating system

Mary Brosmer, Mary is a teacher, poet and social entrepreneur. She is CEO of Consulting for (a) Change and author of Women Writing for (a) Change: A Guide for Creative Transformation. She pursued her dream of offering women a safe place to hear their voices through writing, and in 1991 founded Women Writing for (a) Change as a business that changes lives. Successful here, the concept has spread to eight affiliates. In 2007, Mary received consultant status in Peter Senge's Society of Organizational Learning and Cincy Business' Athena Award. Leading Women, Inc. recognized her as a 2005 Outstanding Leader.
